

Abstract

[0029] A closure system and method for improving cargo security. According to one aspect of the disclosure, a locking module is configured to selectively prevent unpermitted access to an enclosure. A memory module is correlated to the locking module and configured to store information corresponding to the enclosure.